

Song Title Game

This game inspires fun and laughter as teams dig deep into their memories to come up with a comprehensive list of song titles containing specific words. It can be played by as few as two people or as many as 20 split into groups. All you need is a list of words and a melody in your head.

Rules for the song title game:

1. Depending on the number of people playing, select teams with no more than 4 players per team. Have each team sit together as a group.
2. The host will call out a word from a preset list. The goal is for each team to come up with the most song titles that contain the word the host has called out. Each team has two minutes to write down their song titles.
3. After two minutes, have the teams stop writing. Have a member from each team roll a dice. The team that rolls the highest number gets to go first.
4. The team shares their list of song titles with the entire group. If any of the teams have the same title on their list, they must cross it off and no points will be awarded to any team.
5. After the first team has finished listing their song titles, all original titles that are not on any other lists receive two points each. The host will also award one point if the song title is spelled correctly.
6. Repeat these steps for the entire word list, the team with the most points at the end of the game wins!

Below is a suggested word list. You can delete and add as many words as the teams and host likes. Feel free to create your own list before the guests arrive. The more rounds you play, the better you will be at adding challenging word choices to the list.
